Supplemental Security Income (SSI)

SSI is a federal needs based program providing benefits to anyone who is aged (age 65 or older), blind, or disabled. Disabled under SSI rules means a person has a medically determinable physical or mental impairment, which: results in the inability to do any substantial gainful activity, and has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. Substantial gainful activity is defined as the ability to work and earn $1,130 per month. If someone is working, there are ways that could lower the monthly gross wages below $1,130. The Social Security Administration no longer recognizes drug addiction and alcoholism (DA & A) as disabling conditions. Someone with another impairment should still file. If the DA & A does not contribute to the impairment, they could be found to be disabled. Anyone who is disabled, should be encouraged to file for benefits.

To determine SSI eligibility and payment amounts, SSA considers the applicant's income and resources. Income could include money earned from work, benefits from other sources, such as; Social Security, workers compensation, Veterans Affairs, friends or relatives, free food or shelter. Resources are things which a person owns such as; cash, bank accounts, land, vehicles, personal property, life insurance, anything that can be converted to cash and used for food and shelter. A single person is limited to $2,000.00 and a married couple has a $3,000.00 resource limit. There are many exceptions/exclusions regarding income and resources. Anyone that is disabled should be encouraged to file for SSI.

To be eligible for SSI, an applicant must be a citizen or one of certain alien categories. There are many categories of lawful aliens that would be eligible for SSI. Contact a Social Security Office or the National 800 number 1-800-772-1213 to inquire.

Anyone applying for SSI will be asked about their medical history; doctors, tests, and medications. The claim representative (CR) will ask questions about the person's income, resources, and living arrangements. The CR will ask the applicant to attest to the truthfulness of their answers. SSA will also consider eligibility for other Social Security programs (RSDI).

More information may be found at the Social Security website www.ssa.gov. SSA also offers online services for beneficiaries and the general public <https://www.ssa.gov/onlineservices/>

Appeals:

If an application is denied, there is a 65 day appeals period (60 days plus 5 days mailing). If an appeal is requested after 65 days, the applicant must show good cause for late filing of the appeal. If the late appeal is not accepted, a new application can be filed, but there is a potential loss of benefits. The Social Security Office can provide a referral list for free legal services.

About St. Stephen's Human Services

The mission of St. Stephen's Human Services is Ending Homelessness. We progress toward this goal through a range of effective emergency services, shelter and housing programs for individuals and families.

Emergency Services

Street outreach workers seek out people who are unsheltered, living on the streets, under bridges, in camps or in places not fit for human habitation, and connect them to shelter, housing and services.

Shelter

St. Stephen's operates Minneapolis' longest running shelter in the basement of St. Stephen's Church rectory in south Minneapolis, serving 45 men each night. St. Stephen's also operates a shelter at First Covenant Church in downtown Minneapolis serving 50 men and women each night.

Housing

St. Stephen's housing programs offer people experiencing homelessness the range of support they need to stabilize their lives using the Housing First service approach. Once housed, we work with families and individuals to address other challenges they may be facing.

Education and Advocacy

St. Stephen's works to raise awareness and inspire systems change. Key education programs include our A Day in the Life program and zAmya Theater Project. The Advocacy in ACTION Network provides updates on homelessness and affordable housing issues; as well as targeted calls to action.
